

EL GRUPO HUMITA EN LA CANTERA "LA ARGENTINA" (o LOS ARROYOS), PAMPA DE OLAEN, CÓRDOBA, ARGENTINA.

Miguel Del Blanco <sup>(1)</sup> y Silvia Ametrano <sup>(2)</sup>

<sup>(1)</sup> Instituto de Recursos Minerales, Facultad de Ciencias Naturales y Museo, UNLP.

E mail: Inremi@infovia.com.ar

<sup>(2)</sup> Div. Mineralogía y Petrología, Museo de La Plata, Facultad de Ciencias Naturales y Museo, UNLP.

E mail: Ametrano@museo.fcnym.unlp.edu.ar

Abstract

A mineral belonging to the humite group —probably clinohumite- has been determined by means of optical, EDAX, and X ray studies. This mineral occurs within a skarn assemblage in a marble lens located in the Sierras Pampeanas of Córdoba, Argentina. The absence of forsterite and the presence of tremolite suggest the genesis from this last mineral under metamorphic and metasomatic conditions as proposed by Kretz (1980).